

CALL FOR PAPERS

Polarization and Conflict Network Conference on “Conflict and Development” Location:
London School of Economics

March 7-8, 2008

I am writing to invite you to submit a paper for the final Polarization and Conflict Conference. It will take place on 7-8 March in London. The topic for this conference is “Conflict and Development.” The conference will be coordinated by Joan Esteban (Barcelona) and the local organizers are Robin Burgess, Valentino Larcinese and Gerard Padro i Miguel. They will work with Eliana La Ferrara (Bocconi), Edward Miguel (UC Berkeley) and Debraj Ray (NYU) in putting together the final program together for the conference.

The Conference program will cover two days. The deadline for paper submission is January 20th, 2008. A title and the summary will be sufficient for now, but finished papers are preferable. Submissions on topics close to Conflict and Development will receive priority. Please send papers to: angela.hernandez@iae.csic.es by this date. The conference organizers can cover travel and accommodation costs for paper presenters.
